

John Berry, Everybody Knows

She comes to me and steals my attention in the most unexpected times
She's always in my head she haunts me in a good way
I never tire of any things she ever does hanging on to every move because Everybody knows everyone can see everything she's done take a look at me
She took shades of gray and turned them into colors
And I can finally see tonight what everybody knows
What everybody knows

She's the most fabulous distraction always turns my head
She's shinin' like the sun and it's corona and brings it back to bed
I'm fascinated by every little thing she does she's taken me so far from what I was Everybody knows everyone can see...

I struggle for the words the perfect line but no matter what I say I can't define
What everybody knows...
She took shades of gray...
