

John Cooper Clarke, The Pest

The pest pulled up, propped his pushbike at a pillar box, pulled his 'peen, paused at a post and pissed.
'Piss in the proper place' pronounced a perturbed pedestrian, and presently, this particular part of town
The pandemonium prompted the police, who patrolled the precinct in pandacars, to pull up and perambulate.
'Arrest the pest who so pointedly pissed in that public place' pleaded the peeved people, practically
The powerful police picked up the pest: pronounced him a poof, a pansy, a punk rocker, a pinko, a
The period in prison proved pitiless. The pendulous pressure of a painless personality purge promulgated
He put pen to paper and provatively and persuasively propogated his personal political premise -- p