

John Denver, Is It Love

This song appears on two albums, and was first released on the A Portrait Album. A live version also exists.

I know how it feels to be head over heels
To be lost in true love and the light of the moon
When everything seems to be coming up roses
And every word seems to be rhyming with June
Suddenly, all of your dreams have come true
Happiness lives in your heart
Then out of nowhere, one becomes two
And everything seems to be falling apart

Is it love? When your heart, feels like its broken
Is it love? And you just cant take anymore
Is it love? When theres nothing left to be spoken
Is it love? And theres nothing worth listening for
Is it love? ooh ooh

I know what it means to get caught up in dreams
And in prayers that are answered with each passing day
When loving and laughter are birds of a feather
And sharing and caring is one simple way
You know youll never be alone
That someone will always be near
Then you turn around when your best friend is gone
Oh, where do they go? When they just disappear?

Is it love? When your heart, feels like its broken
Is it love? And you just cant take anymore
Is it love? When the good times have all been forgotten
Is it love? And you fear there wont be anymore
Is it love? ooh ooh

Theres no answer, there seems to be nothing to say
In your anger would you even hear anyway
It was magic but somehow youve broken the spell
It was heaven and somehow its turned into hell

Is it love? When you know that your heart has been broken
Is it love? And you just cant take it anymore
Is it love? When you feel more than you could imagine
Is it love? Now theres nothing thats worth living for
Is it love? ooh ooh ooh ooh ooh
