John Elefante, I Know You're There

A lonely tree upon a mountaintop A city street where people never stop There You are A smile upon a little child's face A lonely soul in a forgotten place There You are

But way beyond a winter's dream There's a song without a theme I understand as we dance Deep into the starry night The song plays on till morning light It never ends

(Chorus)
Every time I feel the wind blow
Every time I see a rainbow
I know You're there
Every time I see a tear fall
Every time You hear my heart call
I know You're there

Cause You are the Author of all that we are Father of Fathers We're never too far From You Lord, from You

Old man looking out the window
Wondering where did all the time go
There You are
A mother praying for her lost son
Wondering why on earth did he run
There You are
Holding back tears like a river of years that have all gone by

(Repeat Chorus)

Cause You are the Author of all that we are Father make sure that we're never too far From You Lord, from You

(Repeat Chorus)
