John Farnham, Always The Same

John Farnham, Ross Fraser, Jon Stevens, and Stuart Fraser

There's a young girl working the corner There's an old man lost at sea They could tell you a million stories About the wrong side of the street There's a rich man making money From a poor man's misery It's always the same

Always the same, the fight for survival Whatever you do today don't make Tomorrow the same Fight for survival Forget about yesterday, don't make Tomorrow the same

There's a runaway looking for shelter
An innocent heart that bleeds
There's a blind man playing for pity
Says it's the only way to make ends meet
And he's living of his hard luck story
Says he's a victim of society
It's always the same

Always the same, the fight for survival Whatever you do today don't make Tomorrow the same Fight for survival Forget about yesterday, don't make Tomorrow the same

The seasons come and go And all the questions why How will we ever know if we never try

Always the same, the fight for survival Whatever you do today don't make Tomorrow the same Fight for survival Forget about yesterday, don't make Tomorrow the same Fight for survival Whatever you do today don't make Tomorrow the same Fight for survival Forget about yesterday, don't make Tomorrow the same
