John Hiatt, The Night That Kenny Died

He was the kind of kid you did not want to sit by He kept his boogers in his desk he wore a neck tie And he never washed his hair You wished he wasn't there

But everybody cried The night that Kenny died Everybody cried The night that Kenny died

It was so touching all the girls that would not touch him He drew their pictures in his books I used to watch him And then he'd pick his nose And wipe it on his clothes

But everybody cried The night that Kenny died Everybody cried The night that Kenny died

Died on a motorcycle We never understood That he was holdin' on tight Through the middle of the night Starin' at a [?] one Mercury hood

It seemed so spooky that the nerd we all detested Would die so gloriously and so unexpected A wonderful guy God knows They kept the casket closed

And everybody cried

The night that Kenny died

Everybody cried

The night that Kenny died
