

John Kelly & Maite Itoiz, The force

Even when the night is falling and dark is all around me
Even when the lights are dimming even when the night is falling
I breathe something in the air reminding me I'm there
Even when the night is falling something's giving me the strength
Universal great force are turning around
And the spheres breathe out music in ordered chaos
Universal great force are turning around
And the spheres breathe out music in ordered chaos
Even when the hopes are over and understanding's frozen
Even when the stars are covered even when the night is falling
Don't you feel it in the air there's something bit out there
Even when the night is falling I can feel it in the air
Universal great force are turning around
And the spheres breathe out music in ordered chaos
Universal great force are turning around
And the spheres breathe out music in ordered chaos
Universal great force are turning around
And the spheres breathe out music in ordered chaos
Universal great force are turning around
And the spheres breathe out music in ordered chaos