John Porter, Light On a Darkened Road

Hello stranger, it's good to see you here Seeing you just rolls back the years Maybe I'm not the one you were thinking of So many ghosts come inside to feel near

There's a light on a darkened road Help us when we stumble, when we fall There's a light on a darkened road Help us when we stumble, when we fall

This forest is getting somewhat emptier And it's harder now to find some tears Sit down and let us share our stories And raise our glasses to those not here

There's a light on a darkened road Help us when we stumble, when we fall There's a light on a darkened road Help us when we stumble, when we fall
