Johnny Clegg & Savuka, Journey's End (Emalonj

Every day now when I wake up You know I feel just a little bit stronger I stir my coffee with the promise I'll find you Although I know the road is much longer How many times I've sat and prayed I'd find some map to show the way How many times I've felt each day Laugh at me and just slip away Chorus I don't know where you are My eyes are fixed upon your star I know that that at the journey's end I will see your face again Indlela 'yasidedela (The way is now clear for us) Sihamb' emalonjeni (we begin our long journey) Another highway, another mile Through the dreamtime, down the Nile Under the desert sky blue I have a picture of loving you How many nights I lie awake Feeling your footprints in my soul How many miles will it now take To fill this cup and make it whole Chorus Sihamba singadlile, lasho ithumbo (We travel hungry, and our stomachs talk to us) Chorus
