

Jon Anderson, I Want To Learn More About You

I wanna learn more about you,
We haven't spoke, in quite awhile
And all of the dreams that come true,
So surprising how it captures you

I wanna learn more about me
I've been sinking like I'm set in stone
And now the dreams are realizing it's true
That's why I want to learn about you

I wanna know more about life
And things that can fly in between my mind
I wanna change all that I dream about
My waking and my so many lines, oh my

I wanna learn more about you
We haven't spoke, in quite awhile
Just let me, let me come through
I'll give you my heart, my life for life

She gave me love, when love had gone away
When the flash, it came so fast
She gave me love from this dance, run around
And in between the pressure, I was summoned
And then we danced on the south side of the sky
We saw the flags flying, on the moon
Through the gates of delerium, so fast
Believing in the light was a begining

Only to believe in you, only to believe in you

She gave me love, when I was losing fast
I was awakened by the dream
She was a love for me, the first and last
And all that I remembered, was the round about

Only to believe in you,
Only to believe in you

Who was the first to show the moon at night
Is never so far away
We are the first to define the languages of love
Who was the first to learn the universe
The consciousness devine
We are the first to discover this day in our time
And when the history of science, rewrites itself each day
We're living in days of wonder, simon says

So wonderful, to believe her
So wonderful, I'm alive
Just take this world of life each day at a time
So of this universal combination of the word
I've tried so hard to fulfill my belief

Take me I'm a love you, I'm a love you
No changing my mind
I'll walk with you to the end of the earth

So of this universal combination of the word
So of this universal word of love
Take me I'm a love you, I'm a want you
No need to change my mind

I'll walk with you to the end of the earth

Only when you looked, did I realize
Someone broke into your life
How we hurt and never show it
Come into my world, hold me in your arms
There's a mystery to the touch,
How it heals so where we're broken

I believe that all the fear you had, can gently fly away
We experience, we pull together lost in one embrace
We will love forever, this eternity
For in this love, I'm alive.....I'm alive

Only when you spoke did I realize
How you understand this life
How you help me with your eyesight
Only when we touched did it all come through
How you understand my life
How you helped me with your light
How you helped me with your light
