

Jonatha Brooke, Because I Told You So

if i gave you the sky
if i laid down my life
would you believe me then?
if i promised to change
if i carried the blame
would you believe me then?
could you see it like me
and believe what i see
could you listen, and remember that i love you only, because i told you, because i told you so. if you told me you lied but i stayed true and tried
would you believe me then?
and if your beauty was gone but my love lingered on
would you believe me then?
could you see it like me
and believe what i see
could you listen and remember that i love you
only,
because i told you, because i told you so.
you take the wheel for now i'm too tired to drive this one home anyhow, for now
and when you mention my name let this one thing remain,
my love,
believe me now.