

Josh Gracin, Brass Bed

Baby, the clock on the wall is lying,
It's not really that late.
It's too cold outside to be walking around the streets of this town,
And wherever you think you have to be can wait.

(Chorus)

Why don't you stay with me?
Share all your secrets tonight.
We can make believe the morning sun never will rise.
Come and lay your head on this big brass bed.
And we'll be alright as long as you stay with me, yeah.

Baby, there's just no use in hiding,
The way that I'm feeling right now.
With you standing there, baby I swear, I can't help but stare.
Girl, you're wearing me out, wearing me out.

(Chorus)

Baby, stay with me,
Share all your secrets tonight.
We can make believe the morning sun never will rise.
Come and lay your head on this big brass bed.
And we'll be alright as long as you stay with me.

Baby, don't go.
It looks like it's starting to rain.
And it's so warm here in this apartment wrapped up in this blanket, so,
Stay.

(Chorus)

Stay with me,
Share all your secrets tonight.
We can make believe the morning sun never will rise.
Come and lay your head on this big brass bed.
And we'll be alright as long as you stay,
I'll be alright, as long as you stay,
With me, yeah.

Stay with me.
