

Josh Kelley, Too Good To You

Oh you are a contradiction
My beautiful addiction
The more you get
The less you want
A dead-on prediction

Was I too easy with the truth?
Was I kind when you wanted cruel?

I laid a ray of sunshine down for you to follow
I gave you every ounce of my love, but we lost tomorrow
Was I too good to you?
You were out I brought you in out of the weather
You were happy baby, we were getting better and better
Was I too good to you, baby?
Tell me now was I too good to you?

You are the main attraction
A physical reaction
And yet, the more you need
The less you see
Love is a distraction

Was I too easy with the truth?
Was I kind when you wanted cruel?

I laid a ray of sunshine down for you to follow
I gave you every ounce of my love, but we lost tomorrow
Was I too good to you?
You were out I brought you in out of the weather
You were happy baby, we were getting better and better, Lord
Was I too good to you, baby?
Tell me now was I too good to you?

Should I have held on
Should I have held back
Could I have done so much more than that
You couldn't receive
You wouldn't believe
And now I'm just waiting out the days we're not together

I said waiting out the days

Lay a ray of sunshine down for you to follow
I gave you every ounce of my love, but we lost tomorrow
Was I too good to you?
You were out I brought you in out of the weather
You were happy baby, we were getting better and better
Was I too good to you, baby?
Tell me now was I too good to you?

I lay a ray of sunshine down for you to follow
I gave you every ounce of my love, but we lost tomorrow
Was I too good to you, baby?
Tell me now was I too good to you?

All I know is the same old contradictions follow us wherever we go
You're beautiful, tell me was I too good to you baby?

Tell me now was I too good to you?
You don't know how to feed and protect my love
So open up to where you belong girl
Tell me, was I, was I too good to you?
