

Jude, I'm Sorry Now

Welcome to my world, won't you please find a seat
There's no need to worry... I'm the only one to meet
I just wanted to express myself to you
Undiluted and with nobody else to confuse

See I was Marvin Gaye and Bond, James Bond
I was taking all day so I could turn you on
And I hated when you'd look away when I was inside and slowly getting to it
It didn't help a lot when you would turn around and I was on the top and you would say baby you can do it

I'm sorry now, it's too late,
I'm sorry now, do you have to hate me
I'm sorry now, so sorry, yea
I wish you wished I wished you love
I wish you wished I wished you love

I hate spaghetti and I also hate divorce
You probably already know that but then of course
I like the earthquakes I like it when the world shakes
I like the cracks it takes out of the walls
When two people, lovers, are acting like dolls in the arms of each other that's my alarm

I'm sorry now, and it's too late
I'm sorry now, do you have to hate me
I'm sorry now, so sorry
I wish you wished I wished you love
I wish you wished I wished you love
I wish you wished I wished you love

Life is so unkind
You can fall behind
You know that I'm inclined to ease your mind
Anytime

So welcome baby, I wondered when your countenance would change
From sunshine and vanilla to the raven tones of rage
And my back never looked so broad to you
As now it turned upon the fool who spurned me boo hoo hoo

I'm sorry now, and its too late
I'm sorry now, and you have to hate me
I'm sorry now, so sorry
I wish you wished I wished you love
I wish you wished I wished you love
I wish you wished I wished you love
I wish...
