

Judie Tzuke, Ladies Night

Ladies' night

Looks like a ladies' night tonight

One more time you've let me down and one more time I hide

I spent so long getting it right

I wanted so much to see you, I wanted to show them why

Another lonely day to pass

Every second takes an hour and each one seems the last

And though it may not seem so bad

With the time that we are wasting is racing by so fast.

Fools, they thought I was alright

They couldn't see that I was dying inside

Fools, don't turn on the light

I can't bear to see their faces when they see me fall to pieces

Another ladies' night tonight

One more time you've let me down and one more time I hide

Looks like I locked it up so tight

Even you couldn't see me falling

You didn't watch me fight.

Fool, you thought I was alright

You couldn't see that I was dying inside

Fool, don't turn on the light

I can't bear to see you stumble, when you see my strength has crumbled

Fools, you thought I was alright

You couldn't see that I was dying inside

Fools, please don't turn on the light

I can't bear to see your faces

When you see me fall to pieces.
