

Judith Owen, Crash The Car

And i thought i knew you
Yes i though, i'd be very good for you
I thought, i knew you
Yes i thought, i meant something to you
You said...

This could be the perfect combination;
(yes you did)
And meanwhile you were sleeping with the nation,
You lied, and you lied and lied to me...

And you, built this wall,
Now you're the wrecking ball,
And baby it's over,
And you, had your fun,
Another hit and run,
So do me a favour,
Just crash the car for me!

And i thought you knew me,
Yes i thought, you were very good for me;
I thought you knew me,
Yes i thought that, you wouldn't be so cruel to me...

Cause you said we're the perfect combination
(yes you did)
But it was just a meaningless flirtation,
You lied and you lied and you lied to me

And you, built this wall,
Now you're the wrecking ball,
And baby it's over,
And you, had your fun,
Another hit and run,
So do me a favour,
Just crash the car for me!
(crash the car for me!)

And you said we're the perfect combination,
You lied and you lied and you lied to me...

And you, built this wall,
Now you're the wrecking ball,
And baby it's over,
And you, had your fun,
Another hit and run,
So do me a favour,
Just crash the car for me!
