

Jughead's Revenge, I Remember

I remember

I remember the way you used to act

I remember

The way we argued and the way we laughed

I remember

The way we talked and the dreams that you had shattered

I remember

All the things that used to not matter

I remember

The way you hurt the ones that used to care

I remember

The pain they felt that I could never bear

I remember

The tears they cried I thought would never end

I remember you