

Jughead's Revenge, True Enemy

I threw my eyes to heaven
Screamed into the sky
There's nothing here to change us
That's the reason why
We're living out a lifestyle
Unconscious souls lament
You guys are so fucked up
You have to represent
Nothing that is real
Could ever take the place
There's something in my eyes
When I look into your face
So why can't I believe
A single thing
There's something in my mind
That caused me to displace
When I found out my true enemy lived inside
Assassinate my guilt and shame I can't deny
My words are made of lead and made of steel
I'd rather kill than have to deal
Falling down the stairs
Of what I thought controlled can rip the face right off
Of any given foe
So next I receive
Those painful things I say
There's something in my mind
That caused me to be displaced
