

Julia Fordham, Love Moves In Mysterious Ways

Who'd have thought this is how the pieces fit
You and I shouldn't even try making sense of it
I forgot how we ever came this far
I believe we have reasons but I don't know what they are So blame it on my heart, oh

Love moves in mysterious ways
It's always so surprising when love appears over the horizon
I love you for the rest of my days
But still it's a mystery of how you ever came to me
Which only proves, love moves in mysterious ways

Heaven knows love is just a chance we take
We make plans but then love demands a leap of faith
So hold me close never ever let me go
'Cause even though we think we know which way the river flows
It's not the way love goes, oh

Love moves in mysterious ways
It's always so surprising when love appears over the horizon
I love you for the rest of my days
Still it's a mystery of how you ever came to me
Which only proves, love moves in mysterious ways

Like the ticking of the clock
Two hearts beat as one
But i'll never understand the way it's done...

Love moves in mysterious ways
It's always so surprising when love appears over the horizon
I love you for the rest of my days
Still it's a mystery of how you ever came to me which only proves
Love moves in mysterious ways...

love moves in mysterious ways....
