

Julia Fordham, My Last Goodbye

written by Julia Fordham

Know that I'm living on a day-to-day basis
I'm digging in the dirt for traces of our love
Of our love

And with the sun as my only witness
And the sun knows for sure that this is

My last goodbye
My last goodbye

Hear me now 'cause I'm speaking for the lost and the lonely
I'm allowed to 'cause of how you hurt me
I belong, I belong

And I swear on the stars up above
And I swear I'd do it all again for love

This is my last goodbye
My last goodbye

And I've had my fair share of the good, bad and beautiful
And I've had my fair share of life

This is my last goodbye
My last goodbye
I can't take another goodbye baby
I won't make another goodbye baby
