

Julia Fordham, Where Does The Time Go? ('98 V

(duet with Curtis Stigers)

If I could have a pound for every moment
I spent worrying
On all the little things in life that
Frankly there's no hurrying
Then I would be a rich girl
I wanna be a rich girl soon
But going at this rate
I think it might well take
Till there's life on the moon

Oh, where does the time go?
Does anyone know?
Where does the time go?
Does anyone know?
Where does the time go?
Does anyone know?

If I could have a sneak preview
To all the earthly reasons
It takes to make the theme of time
I'd be a man for all seasons
And I wouldn't have to worry
Wouldn't have to worry
oh no no no
It seems kind of funny
there's some things I'll just never know

[chorus]

We were saying
The other day
How it's really amazing
The days just seem to slip away
And it is right before
Our very eyes
There's some things that
We'll never, never know

[chorus]

If I could have a pound for every moment
I spent worrying
On all the little things in life that
Frankly there's no hurrying
Then I would be a rich girl
I wanna be a rich girl soon
But going at this rate
I think that it might well take
Till there's life on the moon

[chorus]
