

Julia Nunes, Blushing Cheeks

I think it's better if we stay friends 'cause I already know how this will end this is crazy, where is my sense? when did I lay down my defense?

please ignore my blushing cheeks, my ears are redder and I'll endure these lonely weeks 'til things get better and I'll be there for you
'til my heart rips in two

I hate waiting this out, feeling this way I should stop this now but it's way too late this is stupid, I never take a chance and I've never been one for romance

please ignore my blushing cheeks, my ears are redder
and I'll endure these lonely weeks 'til things get better
and I'll be there for you
'til my heart rips in two

far from where I want to be 'cause you've got some power over me

please ignore my blushing cheeks, my ears are redder
and I'll endure these lonely weeks 'til things get better and there's no simple solution but I wouldn't ask for more because I believe in you and me, baby I'll be yours

please ignore my blushing cheeks, my ears are redder
and I'll endure these lonely weeks 'til things get better
and I'll be there for you
'til my heart rips in two