Julia Pietrucha, Unda Da Sea

when i left my home i dove alone
whit no one else to share my moan entire world has slowly choked

I am gone and forgotten whit all of my dreams
they slowly seep
through my fear

uuu
uuu
uuu

growing up youn in ocean's deep I've always dreamed of having wings I promised myself I won't deorn this way

whit all my fears finally I break my scales grow wings and flu away who are we to find the reason why we're not the same we used to be we float until we find another dream cause even if the world turns round I will hold you under water we're not the same we used to be

we float until we find a way to breathe
