

Juliana Theory, August In Bethany

With the sound of the ocean crashing
7:30, Friday evening
Everything comes tumbling down

I choke back each tear that bleeds
I'd rather rest forever in your arms,
I'd rather stay here than go,
But I know that I should leave,
As I sit here helpless

Don't go
You said you wouldn't
You said you wouldn't
Don't go
You said you wouldn't
You said you couldn't
Don't go
You said you wouldn't
You said you wouldn't
Don't go
You said you wouldn't
You said you couldn't

I think of our times together

Is it faded or am I dreaming
Everything you said is wrong
I cherish our memories
I want to kiss your tears away tonight
It's hard to give up the one you never thought you'd leave

Don't go
Don't go

You eyes, they see through my soul

Don't go
Don't go

You say as I walk as I walk out your door

With the sound of the ocean crashing
7:30, Friday evening
Everything comes tumbling down