

Julie Doiron, In This Dark

Your hand is perfumey and white
Touching my face and I am teary eyed
I can still see the shame

My arms are shaking my fingers are numb
I can barely coordinate myself
Use your hand for me

Every time things go so well
I think of all the things that have gone this wrong
Timing's never been worse

Your hair is sparkling white
All covered in snow
In my ugly coat tonight

Move the hair from my face
My glasses are foggy and broken
My eyesight is worsening in this dark

Tell me will you see

Every time things go so well
I think of all the things that have gone this wrong
Timing's never been worse