Juliette & The Licks, By the heat of your light

I'd come around like a little cat
Brush past your leg imagine that
Don't leave my dish outside
I want to eat by the heat of your light
I wake up just a little too late
You softly walk away, shut the gate
Don't leave my love in the dark
I still feel the beat, by the heat of your light
The letters, I sent went unreturned
Like plucking the wings of a baby bird
I wonder where it all began and if it will ever appear again
Come rock me to sleep by the heat of your light
