

July For Kings, Rain

Sitting underneath the clouds regarding the fading light a temporary blue sky we stand again with the memory of our secrets the fragility and the sweet kiss the mystery of silence with calm before a storm for healing

I watched the colors fading impressionistic painting it'll lie above my head like everything that's blurred and fading I hear the distant warning of everything to come the perfect sky will open up we'll have no place to run

Rain
I dont know why everythings the same feeling this again
summer rain
I dont know why everythings the same
feeling this again

This time
regarding the fading light I'm hanging on but no one can see me crying out for anger and arguing with the sun reaching for that blue sky but its too high and growing fainter

I watch the sky exploding
impressionistic painting
you lie above my head the deeper blacks and blues parading
I hear the distant warning
of everything to come
the perfect sky will open up
we'll have no place to run

Rain
I dont know why everythings the same
feeling this again
summer rain
well I dont know why everythings the same
feeling this again

Its lonely here in another time is it all more clear now that everybody's crazy it's hazy and maybe the sun will appear

Oooh

Rain
I dont know why everythings the same
feeling this again
summer rain
I dont know why everythings the same why everythings the same
feeling this again

summer rain
summer rain
summer rain
everything's the same
everything's the same
feeling this again

Sitting underneath the clouds
regarding the fading light
temporary blue skies was too high