

Junction 18, Lil' Joey

i've caught myself running back for you running back for me i'm just about to see behind your back you're slipping down the fold minding all your own but you'll never know that the doorway is always open and the help is here at home there'd be an angel waiting for you but you smashed her long ago if you can find it in your empty heart that there's a warmth within it you gotta give up all your future plans to fill the sand

invitations on your sleeve i heard the boat's about to leave pack your things that whoa you in they all live underneath your skin so go wipe your tears that won't take the fear away take the fear away
today but the doorway is always open

and the help is here at home
there'd be an angel waiting for you
but you smashed her long ago
if you can find it in your empty heart
that there's a warmth within it
you gotta give up all your future plans
to fill the sand

don't, don't you feel alone? now, now you're on your own please, don't wander on the road if you wander on the road you will see all of it you'll bleed all of it yeah

the doorway is always open
and the help is here at home
there'd be an angel waiting for you
but you smashed her long ago
if you can find it in your empty heart its whisper don't repeat it you better rearrange your future plans

the doorway is always open
and the help is here at home there'd be an angel high above you
but you smashed her long ago
if you can find it in your empty heart
that there's a warmth within it
you gotta give up all your future plans