

Jupiter Sunrise, Steal Me

Sleep in the grass,
In a blue feild.
Fireflies blinking past Orion.
All sprawled out beside the bikes,
Wheels still spinning.

I know a shortcut along the stone wall,
Where evergreen soldiers point their branches,
For a child-like mind,
Like yours and mine to follow.

So come on, steal me.
Come on, steal me.

I drew a map so we can get home,
Or maybe come back here in the summer.
But I'm not sure how to draw,
A path to get to moonlight.
So tonight these stars,
can shine as our halos.
And pine trees watch over,
Like gaurdian angels,
Protecting a perfect love,
Between twilight,
And all a lifetime of yearning.

Come on, steal me.
Come on, steal me.

I won't be awake for much longer
I won't be awake for much longer
I won't be awake for much longer
So come on.

Come on, steal me.
Come on, steal me.

Come on, steal me.
Come on, steal me.

Come on, steal me.
Come on, steal me.
