

Kainos, Make It Loud

In this life, you got so many options
Possibilities endless and the world wait
To suck you in
But you've changed, found another direction
Will you stand fast now that you've stopped
Chasing after the wind

In a world of complications
Tell me how can you be yourself

As long as you're living in the truth it's alright to rebel
But don't just say it make it loud

On the wall hangs the glass
As you gaze in it, it seems there's someone else
You look closer, deep in the eyes
Finally through the tears you take off your disguise

In a world of complications
How can you be yourself

As long as you're living in the truth it's alright to rebel
But don't just say it make it loud

Leave all your false convictions
And despite all your imperfections
Turn your back on man made traditions
Live what you believe

As long as you're living in the truth it's alright to rebel
But don't just say it yeah
As long as you're living in the truth it's alright to rebel
But don't just say it make it loud
