

Kalan Porter, Walk On Home

This time it feels so bittersweet
To realize I've always known
Still I lie awake in frozen sheets
Safe and sound and so alone
So I leave it behind and say hello
Now you're setting fire as you go
And you waved goodbye to all that you know
Running up a one way street alone
You walk on home
Walk on home
You hear the slamming of the door
You realize you're on your own
Your pride's still lying on the bathroom floor
In a pile of sticks and stone
This time leave it behind and say hello
Now you're setting fire as you go
And you waved goodbye to all that you know
Running up a one way street alone
You walk on home
Walk on home
Walk on home
Walk on home
You shout it out until you know
You're on your own
Another soul just walking home
Now you're setting fire as you go
And you waved goodbye to all that you know
Running up a one way street alone
Now you're setting fire as you go
And you waved goodbye to all that you know
Running up a one way street alone
You walk on home
Home
Say goodbye, you know
You walk on Home
Walk on home
Walk on home
