Kaospilot, Process Is Set

Mankind is measure. This process is set. We cry for a change - we call for a change. But without measure. This process is set. We cry for a change - we call for a change. But without measure. This process is set. We cry for a change - we call for a change. But without measure. This process is set. We cry for a change - we call for a change. But without measure is change. The process is set. We cry for a change - we call for a change. But without measure is change. The process is set. We cry for a change - we call for a change. But without measure is change. The process is set. We cry for a change - we call for a change. But without measure is change. The process is set. We cry for a change is change in the process is set.