Karnivool, Shutterspeed

Leave me alone I'm seething I search for the truth and love in your eyes Help me to feel I'm needed I search for the truth to find you mine

Bust myself back into pieces, I pull at the seam as you start to tear Lead myself back to my coma shell No better face left to bare

I see more than you And I feel more than you

Your spinning me out

It's a better room now, it's a better place I would beg you to scream at me The voices cry, the fashion mould They want the truth, not what it seems

Bust myself back into pieces, I pull at the seam as you start to tear Lead myself back to my coma shell No better face left to bare

I see more than you And I feel more than you

Your spinning me out

Speak to me now With guided tongue See through me now Look what you've done

I see more than you And I feel more than you

Scrape me from the ceiling
These suckers want more
I feel the pressure belonging to all
Put fear in to my mind
I'm open to everything
I feel the strength of you
Give me this feeling I need yeah

It's a better room now, it's a better place

I feel more than you