

Kate Voegele, Where The Sidewalk Cracks

I stood here on this same old ground one year ago - And now standing here at the edge of the wood
Falling once, it showed me the place where the sidewalk cracks
And now I look before I leap - And calling out my name isn't gonna bring me back
Sometimes just being blind for awhile will teach you to see
The sky's the limit, it's funny how I flew the day you left
You say you made that big mistake again, I've got no sympathy for that Well, soon I'll find my shooting star, so you can show your chances to the door
You've wasted my time - My eyes are straightforward and you don't have me cornered anymore - No
Falling once, it showed me the place where the sidewalk cracks
And now I look before I leap - And calling out my name isn't gonna bring me back
Sometimes just being blind for awhile will teach you to see
Falling for you one time - And crawling on a thin line - Was worth it all the while - All the while - All the time
Falling once, it showed me the place where the sidewalk cracks
And now I look before I leap - And calling out my name isn't gonna bring me back
Sometimes just being blind for awhile will teach you to see
Sometimes just being blind for awhile will teach you to see
