

Kathy Kelly, A broken heart

A broken heart's a bird without wings to fly
With all your might it can't be denied
A broken heart's the darkness out before the dawn
Why is it you're left lonely to the pore
If I had to try my best to remember
Where a time with no memory of view
I close my eyes
And try hard to pretend
This heart's been broken once before
I know
A broken heart in a year if given time
A broken heart needs all the strength you've got inside
A broken heart has no safe place to hide
A broken heart, so show the world won't be the same
A broken heart can feel no desire
It leaves you wear all that remains
I know
So torn apart so many words unspoken
It must learn this hurt will end
So if our tears should fall
Don't wonder why
From now on it's for ever you
A broken heart can feel no desire
It leaves you wear all that remains
It's a broken heart like a river that won't flow
You cannot do that to me
I know
A broken heart in a year if given time
A broken heart needs all the strength you've got inside
A broken heart has no safe place to hide
A broken heart, so show the world won't be the same
A broken heart can feel no desire
It leaves you wear all that remains
It's a broken heart like a river that won't flow
You cannot do that to me
This I know
A broken heart in a year if given time
A broken heart needs all the strength you've got inside
A broken heart has no safe place to hide
A broken heart, so show the world won't be the same
A broken heart
A broken heart
