

Kavana, Where Are You

i've always found it hard to see into the other side of me i've always found it hard to love before you you turned my whole world upside down you introduced me to someone i never knew you casually told me you never meant to stay you said you'll never hurt me and then you went away chorus

baby, are you coming home?
'cos i need you here with me i gotta have you once again where are you?
baby i need you by my side like a flower needs the rain i've got to see your face again
where are you?

i watch the days go by so slow, i think of times i'll never know becoming more like what you said i'd never be i'm holding on to yesterday it takes me all my time to pray i'm slowly losing faith in love and faith in you

you said you'll never hurt me tell me why did you go away

chorus

i'm hanging on to every single word
i'm hanging on to every single word you said i'm asking you baby 'cos i gotta know
