

Keira Knightley, A Step You Can't Take Back

So you find urself at the subway
When our world in a bag by our side
And all at once it seems like a good way
You realize it's the end of the line for what is worth

Here comes the train upon the track and there goes the pain
That cuts to black
Are you ready for the last act to take a step?
You can't take back

Take it all the blanchetes u could take
Took'em all right on the chin
And all the camels back is breakin' again, again
For what is worth

Here comes the train upon the track and there goes the pain
That cuts to black
Are you ready for the last act to take a step?
You can't take back

Did she love you?
Did she take you down?
Was she on her knees?
Would she kiss your crown?
Tell me what you found

Here comes the rain so hold your hat
And don't pray to god 'cause he wont talk back
Are you ready for the last act to take a step
You cant take back, back, back, back
You cant take back, back, back, back
So you find urself at the subway
When our world in a bag by our side