

Keldian, Crusader

let it go, give up the starlanes its the final frontier we have come, out of the embers we have come to conquer another chance, a new beginning no turning back now who we are, yet undecided time to create now
set our hearts alight
for the stars we fly
one of us will be the saviour
and our souls will fly
hope will never die
in the heart of this crusader we are lost, the unforgiven brought our world to ruin crucified, still without penance a universe of martyrs day by day, memories fading of what used to be in our dreams it is still living and we fight for the memory
set our hearts alight
for the stars we fly
one of us will be the saviour
and our souls will fly
hope will never die
in the heart of this crusader