

Kelly Willis, Losing You

LOSING YOU KELLY WILLIS

The days pass by in slow motion
Starts to rain and I don't even notice
Everybody wants what they can't have
And everybody wants a little more
I wish I had a little more

'Cause I've been losing little pieces of you
Like everything I have is coming unglued
Knocking it around in my mind
Searching for the times went by

Take me down to the river

Show me things I can remember
I'm in love with a man
He loves me back the way he should
I wouldn't change him if I could

But I've been losing little pieces of you
Everything I have is coming unglued
Knocking around in my mind
Searching for the times went by

I've been losing little pieces of you
Everything I have is coming unglued
Turn around one day and you were gone
Swear to you I'm still holding on