

Kendall Payne, Belonging

When youve been wounded, deeply wounded by a friend
You wonder when, if ever, you will trust again
When youve been broken, deeply broken by a man
You wonder when, if ever, you will love again
You wonder when, if ever, you will love again
Truth be told Im not quite sure when things went right
But the darkest tunnel always has a distant light
Ive arrived, yes Ive arrived and right on time
You were there to greet me arms stretched open wide
You were there to meet me on the other side
Now I believe in something its been a long time coming
It may not mean that much to you but it means all the world to me
Im belonging somewhere it took me time to get here
But now that Ive become a part of you I never wanna leave
When youve been hurting, deeply hurting all alone
You wonder when, if ever, you will find a home
We can not time our wounds to heal on human clocks
You give space to grieve a devastating loss
You gave me space to breathe, despite all of my flaws
Now I believe in something its been a long time coming
It may not mean that much to you but it means all the world to me
Im belonging somewhere it took me time to get here
Now that Ive become a part of you I never wanna leave
Never wanna leave
'Cause I believe in something its been a long time coming
It may not mean that much to you but it means all the world to me
Im belonging somewhere it took me time to get here
Now that Ive become a part of you I never wanna leave
Never wanna leave