

Kenny Rogers, Starting Again

Starting again

Pretending again

I think we both know this is the end

We can try it again

But we better face it

Losing again

I know we both thought this time we'd win

But you can't take thing and just erase it.

Could it be we talked too long

Maybe we should start off being friends

And try it again.

Could it be we both were wrong

Maybe we should sing our song again

And rewrite the end, start it again.

Start it again

Not looking for love, needing a friend

And knowing inside it's gonna be better

Laughing again

And thinking how wrong we were back then

We're happy again and this is forever.

Now we know we both were wrong

Aren't you glad we sang our song again

To rewrite the end and start it again.

We start love, love, love

Start it again.