

Kentucky Headhunters, Jessico

Jessico, don't ya know, your're the stars in our eyes
You're the rhythm and the blues and the tears that we cry
Jessico, don't ya know, that you've come as no suprise
And you'll dance away with all the pretty girls tonight

He was raised up right, straight from the dollar store
He worked for every nickle and he know what they were for
He dropped them in the jukebox as he danced across the floor
Fire flew from his tap shoes as the crowd called out for more

Yeehaw

One day the lawmen came and they took away his shoes
Locked him behind the big wall cause he wouldn't hear the news
The times they are a changin' but Ol' Jesse never will Jessico and Elvis will always own the hills

Jessico, don't ya know, that you've come as no suprise
And you'll dance away with all the pretty girls tonight

Yeehaw
