

Keri Hilson, A Promise In The Dark

Listen

Cant count on you most of all when I really need it
Its the simple things that you do that really hurt my feelings
The more I try, the more Im starting to see it
This cant work anymore, than you believe it
Goodbye may come as a shock
Even though I love you a lot
Ive given every breath Ive got
Sometimes you gotta break down and breathe
And how many times I gave my heart
To how many times we fell apart
And it equals

A promise in the dark
So dont promise me
And how many times I gave you me
Divided by so many memories
And it equals

A promise in the dark
So dont promise me

Listen

I just dont know what the problem is, what the deal is
Was I there too much, did I move too fast, I couldnt see it?
All these promises are probably how you deal with it
Im tired of hearing you say your innocent
Dont think I forgot
Because I really didnt care if youre lying a lot
Ive given every breath Ive got
Sometimes you gotta break down and breathe
And how many times I gave my heart
To how many times we fell apart
And it equals

A promise in the dark
So dont promise me
And how many times I gave you me
Divided by so many memories
And it equals

A promise in the dark
So dont promise me
We all make mistakes
Sometimes we do desperate things
What does it prove? NOTHING
And you never do nothing wrong
Then what took you so long, took you so long
Cuz I keep, keep hanging on, keep, keep hanging on
And how many times I gave my heart
To how many times we fell apart
And it equals

A promise in the dark
So dont promise me
And how many times I gave you me
Divided by so many memories
And it equals

A promise in the dark
So dont promise me
So dont promise me
So dont promise me