

King Cobb Steelie, Champion Of Versatility

Have you ever seen your strangled little wishes blowing by

Decisions never reconcile with scenes you've memorized

Kept at home intention really has a tendency

To keep you waiting for tomorrow

You should have left those giant steps

Have you ever seen disgrace turned self-fulfilling prophecy

Have you ever watched the sinking sun disappear into the sea

All along you made a virtue out of reticence

It keeps you waiting for tomorrow

You should have left those giant steps

It keeps you waiting for tomorrow