

King Konga, Like You

i want to be like you in a jam band where the lights crown me and i'm a superstar i want to see like you over me and over them i want to cry like you out my trivial and shallow opinion on the state of things i want to try like you on a soapbox in front of them and I can't claim to have a reason unless it's lost somewhere down deep could be i don't get enough attention if time and talk were cheap i'd want to be like you what if I chose to walk like you?

carrying around my designer personality and biting my nails if i could dance like you i'd be a millionaire i don't think this me would like you but, damn just knowing that you are loving every single blink by&Eacute; it makes me smile for you is anybody in there?

could be i don't get enough attention

could be i don't get enough attention
i'd want to be like you
