

Kingmaker, Everything In Life

"Love yourself" I remember you said
I've done it now and it's gone to my head
Everything in life you must be prepared to pay for I'll not understand, know the back of my hand
It would be too soon if the rays of moon turn to glue don't know you

I don't want to feel at home in this world
When I'm too tired to dream
Life's not what it seems
This world will be the death of me

You wear a frown like the sky's falling down
You're fresh out of luck, after we came unstuck, you picked on a child
Oh why can't you smile
It's time to be myself I say
I'm watching your tears and I float away
Everything in life you must be prepared to pay for
I don't want to feel at home in this world

Janie said "Hope"
Johnny said "Dope" Drugs in the bedroom
Not enough headroom
Acting like a fevered monkey
Sweating like a cold junkie
Letters stapled to his head
Spelled the words "I'm dead"
Sitting in a rocking chair
Floating three feet in the air
Johnny said "LSD"
Janie said "Love me..."

I don't want to feel at home in this world
This world will be the death of me
When I'm too tired to dream
Life's not what it seems
