

Kingmaker, Ten Years Asleep

It wouldn't happen in another world
It couldn't've happened to a nicer planet
It would've happened in another world
So don't pretend to care
When you don't care

Ten years asleep
In the queue for the late night bus
With all of us

Breakfast television
Is the biggest decision I've made
In the last decade

It wouldn't happen in another world
It couldn't've happened to a nicer planet
It would've happened in another world
So don't pretend to care
When you don't care

Ten years asleep
It'll soon be far too late
To call 0898

Ten years asleep
Every mind is a UXB
So don't pretend that...

It wouldn't happen in another world
It couldn't've happened to a nicer planet
It would've happened in another world
So don't pretend to care
When you don't care

All the punks are pushing thirty years
And are hardly feared
All the young dudes
Work for all the old brutes
In expensive suits

Ten years asleep
'cause your grave is empty
But already dug

Ten years of spreading knees
Instead of news
So don't complain that...

It wouldn't happen in another world
It couldn't've happened to a nicer planet
It would've happened in another world
So don't pretend to care
When you don't care

There, there, there
There, there, there
There, there, there
