

Kirwan Danny, End Up Crying

How many times must I tell you
That I can't go on this way
Believing all you say and seeing nothing
You don't want to listen
Can't you hear me when I say
That everything we've got depends on what you do today
Time will not heal
These wounds that you reel
And no one else but us will end up crying
I see you don't believe me
But I'm telling you the truth
'Cause I've seen so many others come and go
It's time to stop and think
Of no others but yourself
And pay back all the people you've been owing
Time will not heal
These wounds that you reel
And no one else but us will end up crying
If I stood up and told you
The truth right to your face
Would you ever understand my point of view
Or would you sit and tell me
That you knew that you were right
And I've betrayed your trust with all my scheming
Time will not heal
These wounds that you reel
And no one else but us will end up crying
