

Kisschasy, Reminder

The alphabet from a to z,
runs through my head to make stories.
Like a letter wrote it stings like a cigarette burn.
Some things change and some things don't.
They're watered seeds that help us grow,
its time for you to forget all that you've learned.
Smiles that take away eyesight,
the words that deafened me tonight
(remember when you told me I'd be good for her?)
We feel asleep and fell in love,
and woke up with a brand new scar.
All you have is right now,
just stay who you are.
I've fallen on ym feet,
I'm right here finally where I want to be.
With the world against me,
Im right here.
When will we forget?