Kitty Wells, Change Of Heart

Well I guess you must have had a change of heart
You don't treat me like you used at the start
You're campaign of love once was a work of art
But I guess you must have had a change of heart
Guess I took too much for granted anyway
But it's just cause I'd believe those things you'd say
Not so long ago you'd swore we're never part
Well I guess you must have had a change of heart
[whistle]

Well goodbye to all those castles in the air

And goodbye to all the plans we used to share

They were frangrance of a dream that fell apart

Now they're gone because you had a change of heart

They're all gone because you had a change of heart
